Fall & Darkness

(A Song for) Fall & Darkness

There's a song for fall & darkness
A song for the original sin
A song for all the beauty and all
The casualties it brings

Let us make love like we're in Heaven
Let's taste our first kiss again
Let our bodies struggle between the war and the rubble, our cruel & naked intent

Words that whisper Love & Worship
Sweet devotion calls your name
To harvest the fruit it took from your youth
Till only the darkness remains

Do you remember that old French town?
A city drowning in its streets
How your dress unveiled my needs
You were the one I needed most, you see

So let us drink to health and freedom
Let's fill our glasses to the brim
And not forget the ones we've met
We will meet again come spring

à l'automne, pour la beauté
Ma mémoire effacée par le vent
Près de toi, je resterai en silence
Je te reverrai au printemps

I'll remember all our moments
I'll live my memories without shame
Don't you be afraid
Please don't be afraid
When I'm away

Pardonne mes larmes et mes péchés
L'éternité, elle vient rapidement
Tout est fini, il n'y a plus rien à dire
Mais tu étais, toujours avec moi

I won't accept my war is over
No, I will fight like I fought before
I won't surrender my pride and fear
To this old war

Garde moi dans ton coeur?
L'automne est presque là
Pendant tout ce temps, tu es restée avec moi
Désormais, tu vas m'oublier

S'il te plaît, veux-tu m'oublier?

Veux-tu m'oublier?

And though my body's weak and wrinkled
My hands are scratched and torn with time
When these eyes close, your beauty they'll hold
One more time
Their one last crime
