A Letter from Dreamland
First Snow will fall Tonight

First Snow will fall Tonight

Frost on the window, icy snowflowers. I'll go to bed, I'll close my eyes. For tomorrow comes adventure. Wonders do happen over night.
In the morning, we'll go out playing. We'll bring our gifts and we'll have fun.
We'll dress up warm and drink hot chocolate and we'll be singing Christmas songs.

Tell my mother not to worry. Tell my father I'll be fine. I'm off to Dreamland, in a hurry. First snow will fall tonight

The afternoon we'll build a snowman. A hat, a carrot and some twines.
We've all heard stories and know for certain. At night, he comes alive!
Then we'll go sledding in the meadow. We'll draw snow angels on the ground.
If up in Heaven You can see us. Well, magic is all around.

Tell my parents to be faithful. Tell my brother to be kind. I'm off to dreamland,
I can't wait for... First snow will fall tonight.

If I may have one wish tonight. I'll promise I'll be strong. I hope, come Christmas time. I'll be home, where I belong.

So God in Heaven if you're listening. Could you let it snow tonight?
I'll tell the angels when they're leaving, to Say 'Hello' at first sunlight.
